Foreword

THE STAFF of the 1934 Ferrian wishes to present this annual in commemoration of the development of our community. The various steps in our growth may be compared with the different phases of our school life.

To the spirit which has brought MARTINS FERRY to the forefront and has made our school an outstanding one in the state, WE DEDICATE THIS YEARBOOK

Over the rough wilderness roads and trails, and down the broad, sweeping expanses of the Ohio, "River of White Caps," onward and westward surged the hardy pioneers who established the settlement in the upper Ohio Valley. As early as 1785 whites settled on the banks of the Ohio at the present site of Martins Ferry. In 1788, this tract of land was granted to Absalom Martin, and by 1795 he had laid out a town which he called Jefferson. The attempt to establish the town was not successful, and it was not until 1835 that Ebenezer Martin planned the present town of Martins Ferry. It was then known as Martinsville. In 1865, Martins Ferry became incorporated as a town. Such, briefly, is the story of this city's origin. A full account of the exciting events of those early days, of the trials and the hardships of pioneer life, of the activities of such families as the Zanes and the Martins, forms a fascinating story and a truly important one in that great epic of our nation's growth.

No pioneer's dream foresaw the full extent of the great industrial development in store for this section of the Ohio Valley. What a fortunate combination of circumstances it is which gives Martins Ferry such rich resources of coal, such ideal transportation facilities, and such excellent industrial sites! . . . Early times found the inhabitants of this region engaged in agricultural pursuits, prominent among which was the growing of grapes. With the realization of the natural advantages one industry after another established itself. In 1885, a survey showed approximately fifteen manufacturing companies employing from nine to three hundred seventy-five men each. Prominent among these were several large glass works, the Laughlin Nail Works, two slate manufacturing plants and a blast furnace.

In more recent times, huge forces of men have been employed by the coal, iron and steel industries.
Several large mines are in the immediate cir-cinity; steel and iron plate are produced in great quantities. These and numerous other industries place our community well in the forefront among industrial cities of the United States.

A BRIEF SUMMARY OF THE CLASS OF 1934

In the year 1930, the present Senior Class of Ferry High "entered the portals" of our great institution as Freshmen, a class which was destined to make history, and to establish records which the classes of posterity might attempt to equal.

During the school year of 1931-1932, this promising class of high school students began to develop confidence in itself. The class became organized and contributed one of its number to act as Chairman for the annual Junior-Senior Literary Contest.

The year 1932-33 found this Junior Class nearing the peak of its ability. Proof of this was the marvelous presentation of the Junior Class play, "Seventeen," on the night of March 10, 1933. The triumph of our Junior year came on the evening of May 12, 1933, when the Junior Class of 1933 "did itself proud" and obtained school-wide recognition of its ability, when it entertained the Senior Class of 1933 at the annual Junior-Senior Reception. The congeniality and fellowship of the Junior Class during the reception was a thing to be admired.

The class approached its dignified attainment with the comforting fact that they were now Seniors. They opened their final display of showmanship with an impressive victory over the Juniors in the annual Junior-Senior Literary Contest, March 9, 1934. Under the spell of victory, the Senior Class Basketeers swept to a victory in the boys' class tournament. Our colorful school career is drawing to a conclusion with the presentation of the Senior Class Play, "Captain Applejack," and Commencement Season activities. May the efforts of the Class of '34 be remembered long in the annals of Ferry High.

CLASS MOTTO: "To thine own self be true."

HISTORY OF JUNIOR CLASS

Very excited and much frightened, we, the Junior Class of 1934 entered Martins Ferry High School in the fall of 1931, with a class of 292. We chose for our motto, "To Thine Own Self, Be True." We selected for our class colors green and white, and our flower, the lavender lilac. In this year, the class was active in sports, the Freshman girls having won the class basketball tournament, and the boys having played in the finals.

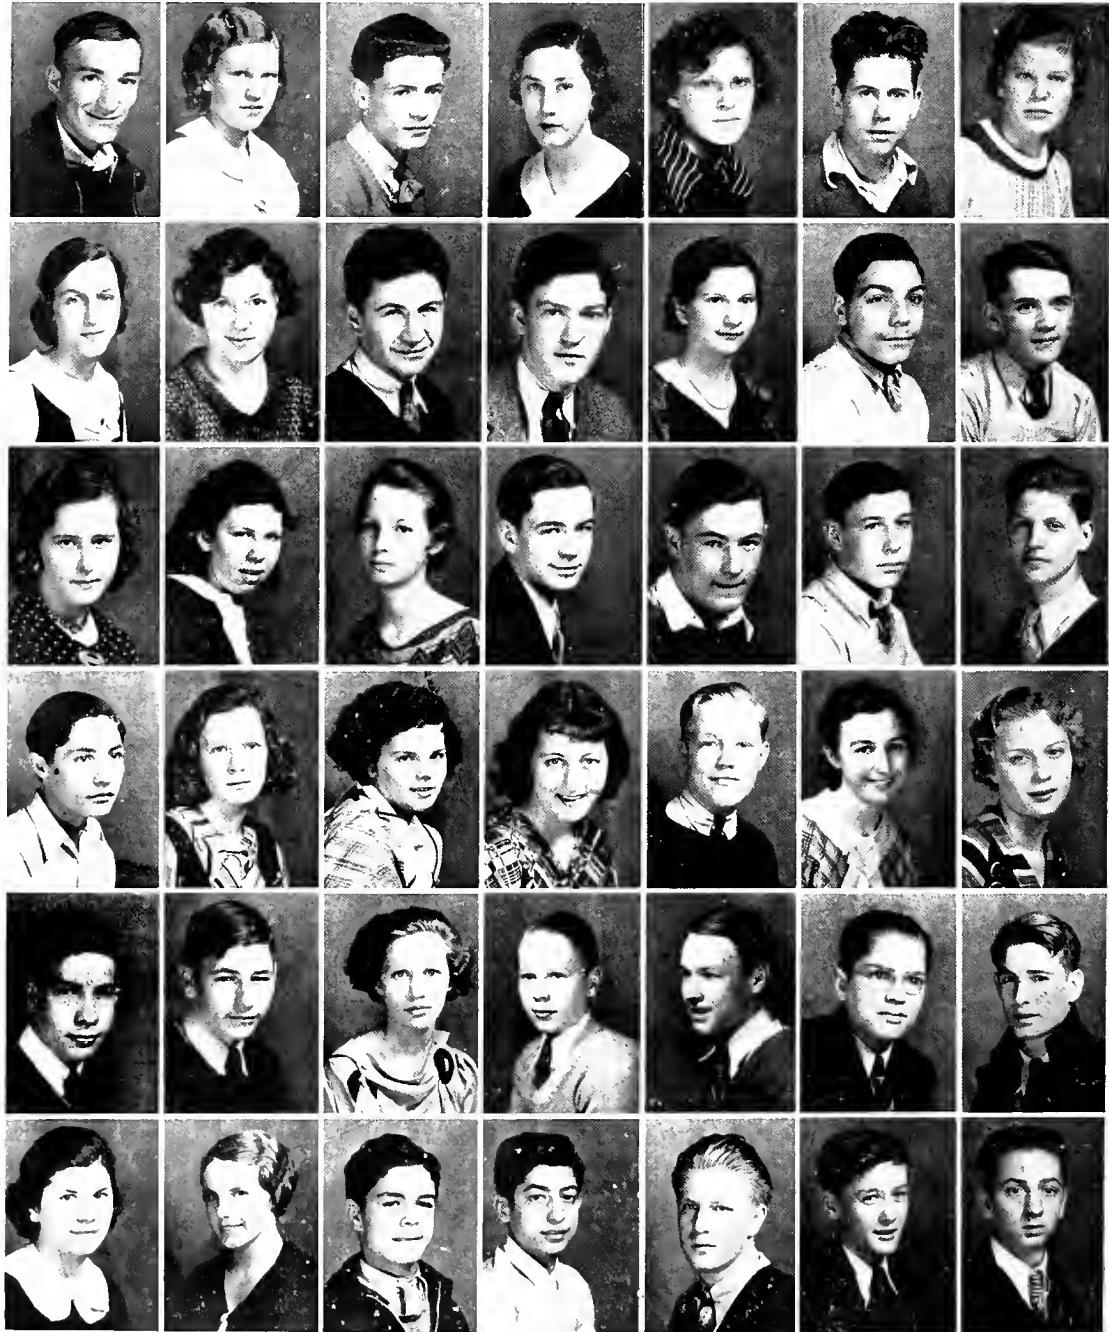

Then, we entered the Sophomore Class, no longer green horns, with a class of 235. Many of our boys and girls were members of the various school clubs, activities, and athletic squads. Our class showed ability and studiousness by the number of students on the honor roll.

As Juniors, we are now near the end of our goal. We have made a good showing in our school, and the boys of our class have been outstanding in the field of sports. Even though we did not have the honor of winning the "Junior-Senior Literary Contest," our contestants put forth much zeal and spirit. Our class play, "The Inner Circle," displayed much dramatic talent which the class possesses. Finally, the event of the year, to which we Juniors have looked forward since entering High School, was the Junior-Senior Reception, at which all had an enjoyable time.

And now since we have completed a successful year as Juniors, we are prepared to carry on our good standards as Seniors.

We "Freshies"

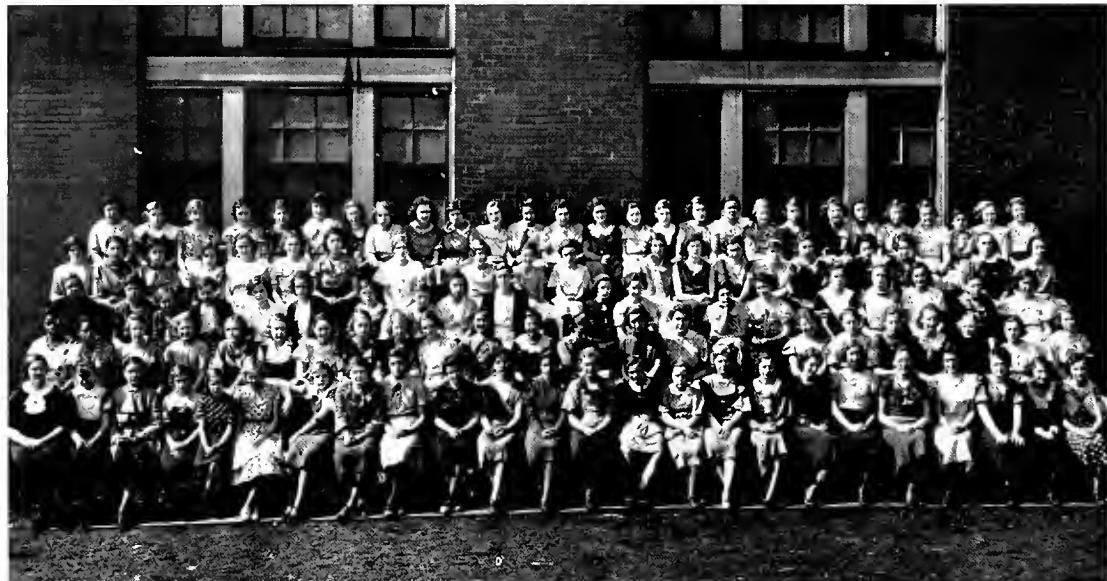

We Freshmen green entered school this year,
We were timid, large eyed, and shy,
But four years of Hi school experience,
Will raise our hopes on high.
We're "Freshies" and we know it,
We may be babies, too,
We may be green in many things
But we'll always be true blue.
So don't laugh, when we pass by,
We'll only look at you and sigh,
We shake our heads, and we'll laugh too,
You better wait, we're not quite through.

Two routes of travel greatly influenced the development of this section of the Ohio Valley in early times. One was the Ohio River, the other was the overland route from Baltimore and Cumberland, Maryland, to Wheeling—the Cumberland Trail. In 1811, the Cumberland Trail became the National Road, a stone-paved highway. In 1853, the Pennsylvania, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads were completed to the Ohio River—the former to Pittsburgh, the latter to Wheeling, and in 1886, the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad was established, placing Martins Ferry on an important rail route. The story of Ohio River transportation from flatboat times down to the present is an interesting one. In 1929, a nine-foot stage of water for navigation from Pittsburgh to Cairo, Illinois, was established by the construction of a system of dams, locks and channels—one of the world's greatest river improvement projects. In recent years, has come the improvement of Ohio Highway Route 7 from Marietta to East Liverpool, passing through Martins Ferry. Trolley and bus lines, also add to the transportation facilities of our community. Thus has transportation played its part in developing the city in which we live.

REVIEW OF THE SEASON

Because of the fact that only three men returned for this year's team, many people thought that Martins Ferry would have a poor team, but they overlooked the fact that Earl Loucks was returning to Ferry to give his services once again. Out of a lot of raw material, Coach Loucks produced a smooth and powerful eleven, who never knew when to say quit.

The first game the Riders proved to their critics and fans that they had a real team by defeating the ever powerful Mingo eleven 27 to 0.

Our second game was with the never-say-die Linsky Cadets, but the Riders proved to be just a bit better than the previous game and handed the Cadets a 19 to 0 drubbing.

Next came the champions of Pittsburgh, South Hills. The Riders sent them back with a 20 to 6 defeat. With mid-season form, the boys turned back Marietta 19 to 6, and Akron South, 28 to 6.

The stage was set for the biggest fray of the season, and Martins Ferry "traveled" to Bellaire to come out on the short end of a close, hard-fought game. The Riders never gave up the fight till the last whistle but were beaten 6 to 0.

12 to 0, East Liverpool ahead at the end of the third quarter, but the Riders don't know when they are licked and run wild in the last quarter scoring two touchdowns, and with the aid of Koteles' educated toe, win 14 to 12.

The homecoming game, and Martins Ferry wins another hard-fought victory over the powerful Youngstown Chaney eleven. Bridgeport was the host the next Saturday, and proved a little tougher than usual, but Ferry won 13 to 0.

The climax of a great season—the Thanksgiving Day game, and Martins Ferry was host to the Huntington Pony Express. The Riders completely saddled the Express, and when the dust cleared away, Ferry was on the long end of the score, 33 to 0. Nine victories, one defeat, a record which we are proud of. Congratulations, Purple Riders.

The Ferrianne

CHARLES BRUNNEY

Quarterback (Captain)

"Chuck," who held down the hardest positions on a football team—that of captain and quarterback—has proved his worth time and time again by his quick thinking and analysis of plays in the pinches. "Chuck" is back again next year and many things are expected of him.

WILLIAM HILTON

Halfback

The speed merchant of the Purple Riders. Never since the day of the immortal Johnny Evans has there been such a hip weaving, leg folding, shoulder shrugging halfback seen on the Purple Rider's gridiron. Bill's high, long spirals were another asset he loaned to the team.

EDWARD BOSTON

End

Eddie's last year was hampered by an early season injury which lasted until the close of the season, but before that he showed that he could hold down an end job with the ease of a winner. "Eddie" was a deadly blocker and a demon on the defense.

CHARLES HODGKISS

Back

One time a quarter back, the next a halfback and later a fullback. This fact proves that "Tuffy" is fast, a quick thinker and an excellent line plunger.

JOHN POLUDNIAK

Halfback

The "blond flash" lived up to his name and ran the ends like the veteran which he is. A dead blocker and an excellent interference leader. Johnny was also adept in catching forward passes.

ANDY KOTELES

End

"Andy" is the only man on the team to get state recognition. Andy's defensive play featured many games. His ruthless tackling and hard blocking was an asset to the team and his hands are like magnets where a football is concerned. Andy also proved his ability as a placement kicker. In many games, his hefty "brogans" brought victory to Ferry.

JOHN BROWN

Fullback

The leading scorer of the valley. His uncanny knack of slipping through the line and reversing the field to run for one of his many touchdowns thrilled many a crowd. "Butch" was also an excellent passer.

FRANK GROZA

Tackle

At first Frank filled up a hole at end but later his strength and never dying spirit was needed at tackle. A grim fighter and another Sophomore who is expected to make gridiron history at Ferry High.

The Ferrrian

Football Reserves

The next year's team comes from the reserve material. They showed they have "what it takes" when they ran wild over the Brilliant Varsity. To them goes the credit of giving the Varsity their many hard workouts which keyed them to starting point on Saturdays. Watch the boys shine next year.

Managers

Some of the necessities of an athletic team are good, capable, dependable managers. The Purple Riders had these in Karl Chambers and his two assistants, John Mitchel, and Woodrow Kirkpatrick. They were ever ready to do things for the fellows. Changing cleats and keeping the uniforms in shape is no easy job, and these boys deserve great credit for their faithful service and co-operation.

Kirkpatrick, Chambers and Mitchell

Harrison Deitch (Capt), William Elias, John Domyan, Betty Sisley, Martha Mackey, Rose Stupak, Rose Furry, Ethel Nagy, Pauline Visnic, Fify Joseph, Ruth Dawson, Arletta Gibson.

CHEERLEADERS

Rah! Rah! Rah! Behold our cheerleading squad! With the organization of a new cheering system this year under the able direction of Mr. Clifford, the coach, and Harrison Deitch, the captain, the team realized the enthusiasm of their admirers, and were given the heart "to put the thing over." At the completion of the season, the cheerleaders were presented letters and miniature megaphones as rewards for their service. The greatest disappointment for the group was the loss of their admired and beloved captain, Harrison Deitch.

Treasurer—George Frantz

An important member of the athletic financial system is George Frantz. He has complete supervision of ticket distribution for football, basketball and baseball games. He also spends one period a day in Mr. Bowen's office. George has served faithfully and efficiently as an assistant to the athletic director, Mr. Bowen, and his true value after two years of service cannot be estimated.

OUR COACHES

Coach Earl Loucks

The return of the "Pennsylvania Fox" to Martins Ferry was a red letter day for the Purple Riders. Through hard work, Coach Loucks produced one of the finest and strongest teams seen on Ferry Field. "The Fox" showed his cunningness and earned his name by the deceptive plays and the way he substituted his men. The team and the school appreciate Coach Loucks, and we hope he has many more successful years with the Purple Riders.

Coach Fred Hart

Frederick G. Hart, the John McGraw of Martins Ferry High School baseball team, by his uncanny skill and analysis of his own players, as well as his opponents, has led the Purple Rider squad of 1934 to another season of victory. During his many years of coaching baseball at M. F., he has established a record unequaled by any other coach in the valley. We wish him many more victorious seasons in the years to come.

Coach Harold Leffler

As an assistant to Coach Loucks and as Head Coach of basketball, "Leff" proved his worth. Coach Leffler has a way of handling boys so that they like and enjoy the sport he's coaching. No one will be able to forget "Leff's" revolving offense which had perfect timing and cooperation. With his splendid knowledge of the game and his ability to teach fellows the finer points of basketball, "Leff" turned out a successful team.

BASKETBALL

Facing a schedule of undetermined strength, which proved to sport many flashy quintets of hoopsters, the Riders seemed to be hampered by a jinx which they were able to shake off only 5 times in 17 starts, but when they did shake it, they showed they were as fast and as flashy as any of their opponents. The record, 5 wins and 12 losses, does not tell the whole story of the season. Many of the games went into extra periods, with the Riders fighting all the way, never once giving up. The backbone of the team and their spirit was held up by four Seniors who, in their time, made court history at Martins Ferry High School. We say "Adieu" to the four fighters, whom we are proud of, and wish them luck, Captain Andy Ko-teles, Jim Morgan, Harold McMasters and Homer Black.

BASKETBALL SQUAD

Bob Shane

In spite of his inexperience, Bob showed that he could hold his own against any man. Besides being full of pep, he also had a very good eye for the bucket.

Frank Groza

Greeze was a tall, lanky center, who had an uncanny knack for tapping them in. Playing his first year on the team, he proved a valuable man. He will be back with us again next year.

Andy Koteles

Upon Andy was bestowed the highest honor given to a player, that of Captain, which Andy filled well. It was a rare treat, indeed, to see Andy leap into the air and block an opponent's shot.

Charles Bruney

Chuck was an excellent running mate for Andy. His passing and timing were excellent features of the game. We are going to see a lot of him again next year.

Joe Gosik

The minute you saw this dark haired boy break away from his opponents with a fast dribble you knew the result would be two points for Ferry. Joe will be one of the keys to a good team next year.

Woodrow Kirkpatrick, Manager

Ots, as he was known by all of the fellows, was a regular guy, and faithfully and diligently served the needs of the players. He is always in for a good time and is seldom without a smile.

James Morgan

The sparkling defensive and offensive plays of Big Jim Morgan were sights that inspired the hearts of all the fans, even to the oldest person. Jim, besides having an "eagle eye" for the basket, was a fast and accurate passer.

Harold McMasters

Fight was Haps middle name. When he was put into a game, it was pepped up 100 per cent. Playing his last year on the team, Hap proved his worth time and again.

Homer Black

Blackie was the best long shot on the floor. Often the hopes of an opposing team were shattered in the last minute by one of his long shots. It will take a good man to fill Blackie's shoes.

Edward Litten

Eddie was outstanding in being able to handle the ball better than any other man on the squad. Little for a guard, but few men got by him. Big things are expected from him.

RESERVES

Although getting off to a bad start, the Reserves of Martins Ferry showed their basketball ability in the way they made their splendid finish of the season. Many of these boys will be Varsity men next year, and big things are predicted for them.

Girls' Class Basketball

The Senior girls reigned supreme this year as inter-class champions. Under the clever direction of their coach, Charlotte Cecil, they "whipped" the Sophomores in their first game, 15-5. Then the true show-down came when they defeated the Juniors, 25-19 for the championship.

Boys' Class Basketball

The Juniors upset the dope bucket when they took the Freshmen 26-16 in the first round of the tournament and the highly tooted and cocky Seniors 23-17 in the finals. McMasters and J. Morgan were their coaches.

REVIEW OF THE SEASON

A team of winners is usually the expectation of Ferry fans, no matter what the sport may be. The baseball team of '34 has proved no exception to the rule. As far as the season has progressed up to date, they have lost but one game out of eight starts. Their ability was tested in an encounter with Warren Hi, last year's state champs, and their worth was proved much to the disappointment of Warren.

They turned back many other strong teams with the aid of six veterans: Poludniak ss., Tidrick 3b, Shane 2b, Bruney 1b, Long, catcher, and Boyd, pitcher.

Among the institutions of great importance to Martins Ferry are her schools. From the time of the crude, log buildings of pioneer days, one of which stood near the upper end of Walnut street, our schools have kept pace with the community's physical growth. In 1880, with a population of less than four thousand, Martins Ferry had a school enrollment of one thousand. Today, with a population of over fifteen thousand, there is a school enrollment of over three thousand in the following schools: the Shreve High School, the Central, Mackay, Elm, North, and South schools, and the St. Mary's Parochial School. Closely identified with the life of our community have been the churches of Martins Ferry. In laying out the town, Ebenezer Martin provided for ground to be used for church purposes. At present, the following churches are located here: Presbyterian, United Presbyterian, Methodist Episcopal, Lutheran, Catholic, Episcopal, Baptist, Christian, Welsh Congregational, Free Methodist and the African Methodist. Martins Ferry established, in 1930, a free public library which has since grown to over six thousand volumes. This, with other fine institutions of the city, is a great asset to our community.

Royal purple - - - gleaming white - - - enthusiasm - - - dependability - - - encouragement in the face of defeat - - - that's the Band!

The year 1934 marks the tenth anniversary of a band in Ferry Hi, and how we have progressed! From a brass band of 18 pieces to a full symphony band with 79 members!

A large portion of its success and fame is due to the efforts of Stanley R. Garber—our own "Pop"—who has given to us all his heart, genius, and ability in perfecting such a musical aggregation.

Band, we are proud of you and we are glad to have such a splendid organization in our school.

ORCHESTRA

This is our Martins Ferry High School Orchestra, which is under the competent and patient direction of Mr. Stanley R. Garber. In years to come, the orchestra may recall, in fond memory, the discords and harmonies of the weekly rehearsals held in the auditorium. Although there have been many hardships, the members still "stick to it." Let's cheer them on and on, and hope that the following years will bring even greater realizations.

GLEE CLUBS

Despite the fact that Glee Club was held at the early hour of 8 a. m., harmony was brought forth by the two groups in the form of the melodious "Springtime" and the beautiful strains of "Trees."

When not getting these songs to blend perfectly, Harmony (?) was acquired by giving different versions to modern melodies.

Under the masterly direction of Stanley Garber, these boys and girls produced real music.

The Debate Club, this year, was the most active in all recent years. Although suffering from the financial loss of a debating team, the club has prospered enough to support a debate team for next year. Programs for the club consisted chiefly of speeches in various forms, as formal debates, informal debates, reports on various conditions, and special reports on various phases of debating, such as: "Platform conduct in delivering a debate."

All meetings are held after school hours, in room 302, every Tuesday night. The members have appreciated the work their faculty adviser, Mr. James Stevenson, who was always willing to aid and cooperate with the club.

The purpose of the club has been to enlarge and develop the knowledge of debating in the individual members, in a formal style, and to give them practice in public speaking.

The meetings were generally "heated," and many were the "hot" discussions. To see was the only way to appreciate, and the club was honored by visits from various persons.

DRAMATIC CLUB

Officers

PRESIDENT	Allan Winstel
VICE PRESIDENT	Melvin Jones
SECRETARY	Bill Williams
TREASURER	Martha Jump

For the purpose of giving the pupils of this high school an opportunity to show their ability in acting, directing and writing plays, the Dramatic Club was organized under the able supervision of Miss Helen Palmer. The club meets every other Tuesday afternoon in the auditorium.

The work done by the Dramatic Club this year is comparable to the work done in the clubs of the high schools of larger cities. It started last fall with fourteen charter members. These thirteen Seniors and one Junior were active members last year.

Credit is to be given this year. The requirements for credit are very rigid. To get credit, one must take part successfully in a work-shop play, pass a test in straight and character make-up, and make a stage set.

The best original plays ever written by Dramatic Club members were presented at the last meetings of the year. Before Christmas, the Dramatic Club presented in assembly, the play entitled, "The Nine Who Were Mother."

"Captain Applejack" is a production different from the general run of plays given in the past. It is a combination of comedy, thievery, piracy and romance.

It concerns a young man, living in ease along the sea coast, who is so bored that he advertises his house for sale and determines to find romance, adventure and the flash of love at first sight. He does so—but does not even leave his own home to find them. He imagines he finds love when a gorgeous lady rushes into his quiet life with the thrilling tale that she is a celebrated Russian dancer who has escaped from Moscow with the priceless jewels of a grand duchess, and is being pursued by a terrible Bolshevik. Ambrose Applejohn shows her a hiding place for her jewels, and she thus learns of a secret cabinet in which is a parchment giving the details of a supposed hidden treasure, and this is what she is after, for herself and her criminal husband. The parchment states that an ancestor of Ambrose Applejohn was a notorious pirate. As guard against some burglars who are prowling about and who have attempted to rob Ambrose, he sits up all night, only to fall asleep and dream he is a pirate. As mild a man as ever scuttled a cup of coffee is changed into a bold, bad buccaneer of the Spanish Main, "cussing" his crew, calling for his grog, sticking a knife into a treacherous "dog," and finally putting down a mutiny by cutting cards with its unhappy leader—always turning up an ace. Waking, he has further adventure with the would-be crooks and finally beats them off, about which time he discovers that he is in love with his young ward, who has been living in his own home for a long time.

"The Inner Circle"

The deep mystery, "The Inner Circle" by Marion Harvey, was presented by the Junior class November 17, 1933, in the High School Auditorium.

The story centers around Jonas Norris, an eccentric old recluse, whose past has been linked with a band of criminals known as The Inner Circle. Norris, with his servant Fordney, lives in terror of the bandits discovering where he is hiding, for in the Egyptian room of his house is concealed a fortune in jewels. Strange and exciting events take place in the old house and Jonas' former comrades revenge themselves on him to the utmost. Hilarious comedy was provided by Jasmine Petunia Snow, a lady of color, and a "spirtseeing female," and Mrs. Fordney, a lugubrious lady who was a harbinger of death and destruction. His lovely niece, Granya, almost falls into their power, but after the perfectly woven threads of the plot are broken, Dr. Phillip Norris is found to be the hidden power behind The Inner Circle, and Granya finds happiness with young Graydon McKelvie.

LADIES, GENTLEMEN AND ROMANS!

Listen to the crier and you shall hear not what happened to Paul Revere, but about those two illustrious Caesar Clubs of Martins Ferry High School and of their inspiring work. The officers of the one club, "Caesar's Favorite Legion" are named for the officers of the Roman army, while the other, "The Imperial Council," has adopted the names of the government officials of ancient Rome. These clubs meet on alternate Thursdays, and really the mighty Caesar himself would feel complimented if he could be present at one of these meetings and see how eagerly those Sophomores absorb each phase of Roman life, whether it be about food, marriages, burials, modes of travel, or manner of dress, as it is explained under the watchful and capable guidance of Miss Helen Sheriff.

To acquaint the Junior and Senior classical students with early Roman history, the Cicero Club was organized. Among the interesting meetings on the calendar was the one at which its members were hosts to the Caesar Clubs and presented an original playlet, entitled, "A Night at Laeca's House." Another enjoyable affair was the annual Christmas party for all Latin clubs, each presenting a playlet in keeping with the season.

Standing for high ideals, and instilling in the girls a desire to be of service and to be worthy of its membership, the Girl Reserve Club has taught us the true worth of clean living, and has helped us to develop our character. A Girl Reserve is always ready to find and give the best, and to extend a helping hand to all.

Among the events sponsored by the Girl Reserves, probably the most outstanding were the big sister hike, to which a Girl Reserve took an under-classman; the Christmas party for poor children; donation day for the needy; the joint meeting of the Hi-Y and Girl Reserve Clubs; the Mother and Daughter banquet; the King Ceremony, and the Farewell to Seniors.

The Hi-Y Club of this present school year confined its actions as a group to minor activities, such as the carrying on of ordinary club business, and the hearing of reports. It did, however, enjoy several interesting speakers, members of the faculty, and local pastors, who spoke on various topics.

The club has attempted more earnestly this year, to further its avowed purpose than any other former members have done. Its purpose is: "To create, maintain, and extend, throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character."

Socially, the club was more active than last year, although not so much so as formerly. Its activities consisted of the following: A series of swimming parties to the Y. M. C. A. in Wheeling, a very successful dance, a party, a bake sale, and the traditional Sweetheart Banquet.

A fine tradition was inaugurated in the school this year, when the first joint Hi-Y-Girl Reserve meeting was held. Rev. Crawford was the guest speaker at this memorable occasion.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club was organized this year after a lapse of several years. All Freshman and Junior High girls who were taking the Home Economics course were eligible for membership. The club was divided into several groups, each group under the supervision of one of the teachers of Home Economics. General meetings were held twice a month, a different group having charge of the program each time; group meetings were held alternating weeks. The girls in the club made curtains for the sunshine room, and hangings and draperies for the social rooms. At Christmas time, baskets were packed and given to the poor, and presents were made. Parties were held which emphasized social conduct and the proper methods of service. A Mother-Daughter banquet was given for the members and their mothers. A Personality contest was also held in order to emphasize desirable conduct and attitudes among the girls. The club joined the National and State Home Economics Club and will profit much by their membership in this organization. Next year, members who were active this year will be eligible as well as the Freshman and the Eighth Grade girls.

The Commercial Club is an organization consisting of students taking Senior Shorthand and meeting periodically for the purpose of increasing their knowledge of Commercial Subjects.

A variety of interesting programs was arranged by the program committee with the assistance of Mr. Hewetson. Members prepared short talks to be given at the meetings. Three programs of special interest were: (1) The study of the steno-type, and its operation and a comparison of this type of mechanical writing with Shorthand; (2) the study of the history of Shorthand and various systems and comparison of these systems with Gregg. At this meeting, Miss Williams demonstrated the Pitmanic system. At another meeting, the system known as Speedwriting was studied and compared with Gregg.

Along with the commercial studies, social activity was resorted to for diversion in the form of a Christmas Party.

THE 1934 FERRIAN

The 1934 annual had a staff of twenty-six dependable workers, who have shown splendid co-operation, enthusiasm, and have been highly efficient in their work. This large annual staff, the first of its kind in the history of the school, having representatives from each of the four classes, has been a very successful organization.

The annual staff expresses thanks and gratitude to all those teachers who have helped and co-operated with us so generously. We are deeply indebted to the helpful criticism and useful advice of Miss Annie E. Morrey, censor of the Ferrian. Miss Morrey demanded that most necessary quality, dependability, and enthused the staff so zealously that the result was ever present co-operation from the members of the staff. We appreciate the patience of Mr. R. M. McFarland, principal, who has given us much of his time and effort in the arrangement of detail. Miss Blanche Latham, secretary to the principal, has kindly permitted us, time after time, to look into the files and records for material. We generously appreciate the labors and ever helpful work of Mr. Merritt Clifford, who has made the publication of this book possible. He had charge of the form of the book, the sales end of the book, the arranging of the various features, the financial part, and the unusual theme that runs through the book.

FERRIAN SALES STAFF

In order to increase the interest of the school, as a whole, in the annual's success, representatives from each home room in the entire student body were included in this group. An unique program of sales promotion was devised by our adviser and carried out by the representatives. This program utilizing the spirit of rivalry resulted in the selling of over 800 annuals, which made possible a bigger and better Ferrian for 1934.

The total number of annuals sold by them was 64, an average of 2.7 annuals per person, which gave them a truly earned victory.

It includes cheerleaders, football, baseball and basketball players plus their managers. All have served faithfully and have been rewarded for their loyal co-operation.

THE NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Remarkable achievements in scholarship, service to the school, leadership and high standards of character are the requisites for membership in the National Honor Society.

The Society has proved itself worthy of the honor it has obtained by conducting a Courtesy Campaign throughout the entire high school, and by rendering assistance to members of the Freshman Class in their scholastic difficulties.

The officers of the National Honor Society are:

President	Jack Thompson
Vice President	Geraldine Hickman
Secretary-Treasurer	Mack Lopusniak

Additional Senior members of the Society are:

Junior members of the Society are:

Rebecca Boyd, Rose Dull, Jack Frantz, Arthur Hodge, Melvin Jones, Betty Ring, Harry Rogers.

SCHOOL STAFFS

OFFICE STAFF

The Office Staff, under the keen eye of Mr. McFarland, was created to assist with such petty jobs around the office as managing the switch board, collecting absence slips, delivering announcements and summons, and doing many other trivial but helpful errands. The dependable members of this auxiliary crew were:

1st period	Jack Frantz
2nd period.....	Opal Bangs
3rd period	Helen Lopusniak
4th period.....	Edna Lott
6th period.....	Jack Misenholder

Another "staff" was organized this year which assisted Mr. Bowen very ably in his office work, and also held jurisdiction over a study room of Junior high pupils. The "staff" was composed, the first semester, of August Edler and Roberta Robinson, both post graduates, and the second semester, Bertha Dew.

LIBRARY STAFF

The wheel of our Library Staff, with Miss Gibson as the "hub," has as its "spokes" numerous literary minded students who must average a grade of C and be accurate and efficient. The duties of these "spokes" consist in acting as assistants to the librarian; aiding pupils in locating assigned material; checking out books and taking care of those coming in; cataloguing; and assuming the responsibility of the study hall slip.

The personnel of the high school library staff, the first semester, consisted of: Frank Burson, John Cazan, Mary Kudla, Mack Lopusniak, Mary Louise Monahan, Earl Stullenburg, and Ruth Williams; for the Betty Zane Library: William Hinkle, Helen Hughes, Vincent Jiga, Melvin Jones, and Geraldine Russell. Mack Lopusniak, Vincent Jiga, Mary Louise Monahan and Melvin Jones resigned at the end of the first semester, due either to tutoring obligations or change in schedule. The following pupils were then added to the staff for the second semester: Lillian Cleary, Victor Kehrer, and Lois Tanka. Honorable mention may be bestowed upon Harold Bryan and Richard Lipphardt for their fine volunteer services the second semester.

The story of Martins Ferry's development is not complete without an account of her many Civic Improvements . . . Prominent among these progressive movements is the street improvement program which has been going forward for several years. What a contrast our streets of today make with the streets of fifteen years ago. Of importance also, is the cemetery improvement work, including the excellent project at Walnut Grove. Without the efforts of the city and the American Legion, this historic spot would still be little more than an eye-sore, instead of the place of interest and beauty that it is today. Martins Ferry is justifiably proud of her community power and water plant, which gives her ample light, power and water at low cost. Another important improvement is the city park, with its colorful fountain, winding walks, and growing trees and flowers. Future generations will praise the foresight of those who fostered this project . . . A review of these steps toward community betterment serves to emphasize the need of more improvements. There is a very definite need for more parks and more supervised playgrounds, for a community swimming pool, for a large building to serve as a social and recreation center, and for greater library and school facilities. May the spirit of progressiveness working within our community cause the materialization of these improvements in order that the lives of our people may be richer and fuller.

THE COLONEL'S DAUGHTER

By BENNY BENNETT

(Original ballad written by a Freshman in Miss Devore's Class)

Upon a hill Fort Henry stood,
Surrounded by a mighty wood.
The settlers' homes around it lay;
Below, the river wended its way.
It was the evening's darkest hour,
The guard from out his watching tower
Heard stealthy footsteps coming near,
A menace to his friends so dear.
All night the battle round them waged,
With settlers in their fortress caged
By Simon Gerty's savage mob
Of Indians, come, their lives to rob.
For hours and hours the fight went on
Till the powder was nearly gone.
A man cried out above the din,
That the powder was in his cabin.
The Colonel called for volunteers;
The choice was his own daughter dear.
Though the danger was great in broad daylight
She must get powder for the fight.
Fleet as a deer to the cabin she ran,
Untouched by bullet from enemies' hand;
Filled apron with powder, then swiftly made
The trip back to Fort Henry stockade.
The Fort was saved; the victory won,
And friendly aid was soon to come.
Forgotten ne'er is Betty Zane;
Her well earned fame will never wane.

FEATURES

Did you know that one of our favorite teachers was the kidnap victim of a band of bloodthirsty Indians a few weeks ago? Miss Helen Palmer, dressed in a demure and dainty frock, was picking wild flowers on the prairie. when in rode a band of painted, whooping Indians, captured the pretty lassie and rode away with her. Only the brilliant horsemanship of our Junior adviser, Miss Margaret Williams, and her ability in coping with the big, bad ruffians, saved our dramatic coach.

Yes, it all happened at the party held by the American Association of University Women for the Senior girls.

Another incident which occurred on that night was the skit, featuring a football game, at which many of the faculty were present. A tragedy occurred, however, when Mr. McFarland (Margaret Koste) and Mrs. McFarland (Louise Mozena) were seated in the grandstand with the three little Macs on their laps. The chair in which the dignified principal was sitting tipped over the edge and hurled Mr. Mac overboard, without a blaze of glory. Other celebrities that added much to the occasion were Miss Morrey (Gerry Hickman) and Miss Sheriff (Mary L. Monahan). The latter restrained our exuberant English teacher with difficulty in the tense moments of the game. Miss Gillis (Dorothy Leatherwood) regretted that she had not brought her pet puppy along when she saw a canine in attendance.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF . . .

By a Sophomore

The hallways would be without any teachers, during the changing of classes?

Dwayne Sterling acted sensible?

"Pop" Garber shaved off his mustache?

The noon hour went by without a squawk from any band instrument?

We had a day without any lessons?

All the clocks would stop in school?

Ada Pastors went untidy?

We had an assembly without any announcements?

Betty Shoemaker went without Bill?

Freshmen found their right classes on the first day of school?

Bernalda Berry forgot how to drive a car?

APPRECIATION --- MR. JAMES F. CLARK

No one needs an introduction to the name — MR. CLARK. In the period of over twenty years that he has been associated with the schools of Martins Ferry and with our county, as probation officer, he has come in contact with thousands of people. Few realize the arduous nature of his work; few know of the difficult problems and the pitiful cases which confront him daily. Yet, through all this work, he has established a reputation for kindness, patience, humor, firmness, and for doing that which is fair and just.

To him, and to Mrs. Clark, who is loved by all, the schools of our city extend their sincere appreciation, and best wishes for many more years of happiness.

Listen, all students, and you shall hear,
The comments of our teachers, dear.
Miss Lemmler with a little sigh,
Always says: "I thought I'd die!"
Miss Morrey says: "Well, children dear,
You must get a tardy slip, I fear."
Miss Sheriff, when she feels quite raw,
Just calmly coughs and says: "Oh, pshaw!"
Mrs. Anderson says with a gentle plea,
"Don't ever say, 'Oh, yes, to me'."
And Stevie, with a gentle wheeze,
Sweetly says: "Attention, please."
And Petty chimes in with a courtly bow,
And starts to say: "Suppos'in, now."
Miss Gillis with an air so mild,
Says her piece with a, "Really, child."
Miss Kennon, ired and in a rage,
Says, "Put your name at the top of the page!"
There's Leffler, and with a scowl,
He says, "Just apply to it another hot towel!"
Miss Lane, just beginning to muse,
Who says: "Girls, you must always bring an excuse!"
And Dennis with a voice quite mocking,
Says: "Children, we shall have no talking."
Then Batty pops up to say his verse,
He says: "Well, we shall skin a frog first!"
Garber, with a look forlorn,
Who cries: "For heaven's sakes, blow your horn!"
And Hart, when angry with a bluffer,
Says: "Will you ever do your work, you duffer?"
And Gibson with a long, dark frown,
Says to us: "Ye Gods, sit down!"
And Loucks, when he is feeling glum,
Says, "March right up and unload your gum!"
And Hewetson with a little trill,
Says to us, "Children, dear, you must keep still!"
Miss Craft, when she wants to annoy us,
Comes up and says: "Report to Dennis."
Miss Freter as straight as a thistle,
Says: "Girls, girls, I have blown the whistle."
Miss Latham, without much ado,
Says, "Boy, that will make five mornings for you"
Miss Williamson says without delay,
"An assignment a day keeps an 'F' away!"
Miss McDanel, without much debate,
Says: "Keep your notebooks up to date."
Miss Devore, when time is pressed,
Says: "Prepare yourself to take a test."
Miss Nesbitt, sitting prim and neat,
Says. "The bell has rung, take your seat."
Mr. Stroup says—"According to rules,"
Or, "Return to the table your tools."
Miss Sorg, when you're feeling rum or bum, Says: "Open your mouth and stick out your tongue."
Miss Gibson, in a mood quite blue,
Says: "Your library book is overdue."

Miss Palmer, with a sigh quite low,
With cupped chin says: "Well, I don't know."
Miss Williams, sweet and at her best,
Says, "We should make this prom a big success."
Miss Morris, thinking it's a treat,
Says, "Tomorrow, I will put out the new guide sheet."

And Clifford, in a tone sublime,
Says, "I want everyone of you to have your speeches on time."
And last, but not least, we have dear Mac,
Who thinks if he laughs his face will crack.
And who says, when you tell him an event to be,
"Well, well, my dear children, you never told me."

"ODE TO THE SENIORS"

So long, you lucky Senior.
I'm not glad you're outta here.
The teachers like me so well,
That they're keeping me another year.
I'm not glad you're graduating,
I'd like to graduate, too.
Some people say I'm smart,
But not smart enough to get through.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE IT?

Twice last week nobody was at school. Mr. Gibson told his class how to work a problem in a Science test. It rained so hard on the third floor that one of the teachers used a typewriter cover to keep from getting wet. The Mechanical Drawing room is so warm that varnish peals off the chairs. A high school teacher was seen washing the windows of his home. We have the doubles of Mae West, Greta Garbo, Rudy Vallee and "Bing" Crosby in our High School. The Science teacher tells his class they are going to have a test, and tells them to study until he makes out the questions.

FRESHMEN

We came in school in timid bunches, And we might have acted like some dunces, The Seniors said "They look kind of dumb," But don't blame us, we just begun. We might have looked a little shy, But this is our first year in Ferry High Although the Seniors think there's is heaven, We'll all be there in '37." We came in here to do our best, And to finish just as good as the rest, And when the time comes, when we must go, We hope we make as good a show. But though we are kidded every day, We soon begin to learn the ways, And just as the others have set the pace, We hope we will give them a real good chase. And as the Seniors leave this year, We're going to miss them and their cheer, But as they pass out through the door, We'll salute their class of '34."

—Wilfred Graham

WE WOULD LIKE TO SEE SOME DAY:

- a. Mr. Hewetson unable to read his own shorthand notes.
- b. Mr. Petty bewildered at being asked what H_2SO_4 meant.
- c. Miss Kennon faltering and stammering when asked the speed of sound in air at zero degrees centigrade.
- d. Mr. Batdorf dissecting a camel's foot.
- e. Miss Williams unable to tell a student where the variable line-spacer is on a typewriter.
- f. Mr. Stevenson talking to a group of capitalists, headed by J. P. Morgan and Roger Whitney.
- g. Mr. Clifford committing that most gross of all public speaking blunders, that of faltering and pausing in the midst of his speech.
- h. Mr. Loucks unable to make a profit and lost statement.
- i. Miss Palmer unable to explain the difference between a drama and a comedy.
- k. Miss Morris unable to tell who the following men are and why they are famous: Venezelos, Brusiloff and Hollweg.
- l. Miss Morrey at a loss when asked: "Who is the chief character in Shakespeare's drama, 'The Tempest'?"

ROMANCE

I

Isn't it funny how, just by chance, We meet someone, ah! then romance. At least, that's the way it seems to me, These school romances—they have to be.

II

Without even a thought, I enumerate At least twenty-six or twenty-eight. Just for the fun of it, let's review Half a dozen or so, just a few.

III

First we see, coming down the hall Mrs. Smith's daughter, "Dot" and her Paul. Oh, woe is me! who's this I see? Looks like a fight, it's "Bet" and "Kenny."

IV

Just look at these two turtle doves, Lawrence and Nellie—it must be love! Beth looks into her Wilbur's eyes, He looks up; they both breathe sighs.

V

Lots of laughter, who can it be? I might have known—Dot and "Happy." Just look now coming on the scene, Rose and Andy, looking so serene.

VI

"Socko" and Elsie next come by. Then "Romeo Zimmie" breathes a sigh, As cute Miss Shoemaker walks along Singing a bit of a melodious song.

VII

If, by some chance, I should be wrong, Just pass it over, like an old song. And please, don't place the blame on me 'Cause I only put down things that I see.
